life-impacting teaching with Paula Miles!

Paula Miles is wife to Kevin Miles, a ruling elder at Clemson Presbyterian, mother of four precious children. She is grandmother to six amazing grandchildren. Paula grew up in Anderson, SC and graduated from Clemson University. She has experienced the joy of being a full-time homemaker and a public school teacher. Studying and teaching God's Word is her passion, as well as coming alongside women to encourage them to understand their unique design and fulfill their individual callings. Paula has been on staff at Clemson Presbyterian as Women's Ministry Coordinator since 2014. She is also a conference speaker and serves as a trainer on the PCA's Discipleship Ministries (CDM) National Women's Ministry Team. She enjoys exercise, a good cup of coffee, watching sporting events, and investing in the lives of her family and friends.

Purpose of Event

- To equip women to provide life-giving leadership that is Word-based and relationally driven
- To show the relationship between our theology and healthy women's ministry
- A chance to connect with women in the presbytery who are ministering in similar contexts

Who may attend?

All women, high school age and up, desiring to be better equipped for healthy ministry in their church and beyond. All women in Western NC are invited to attend!

What will the day look like?

Detailed schedule to be determined, but there will be:

- Continental breakfast
- Brief time of worship
- Teaching sessions with breaks
- Lunch (included with registration)
