

Foundations

None Greater, Matthew Barrett

Strange New World, Carl Trueman.

The Rise and Triumph of the Modern Self: Cultural Amnesia, Expressive Individualism, and the Road to Sexual Revolution, Carl R. Trueman.

Modern culture is obsessed with identity. Since the landmark Obergefell v. Hodges Supreme Court decision in 2015, sexual identity has dominated both public discourse and cultural trends—yet no historical phenomenon is its own cause. From Augustine to Marx, various views and perspectives have contributed to the modern understanding of the self. Carl Trueman analyzes the development of the sexual revolution as a symptom—rather than the cause—of the human search for identity.

Covenant

This is a great tool for teaching about the different covenants in the Bible. It comes folded for easy storage.

Covenants Made Simple, Jonty Rhodes.

Far as the Curse is Found, Michael D. Williams.

In this study of the meaning and scope of the covenant and highlights the goodness of the physical realm and God's redemptive intentions for his creation.

The Covenantal Life: Appreciating the Beauty of Theology and Community, Sarah Ivill.

We live in an age where we have traded a God-centered theology for a man-centered one, traded in interdependence in the community of grace for individualism and isolationism, taken liberty to speak whatever is on our mind instead of speaking in love, and think our life plans are for our own choosing and glory. A key solution to this problem is a return to a robust knowledge of Covenant theology, which in turn should lead us to a rich engagement within the body of Christ.

Heirs of the Covenant, Susan Hunt.

Womanhood

Beyond the Roles, various authors, edited by Melanie Cogdill

Theology matters and our ministry to women must be grounded in a biblical understanding of what God's Word says about the issues we face. Beyond the Roles brings together an ethnically & generationally diverse group of authors to respond to various contemporary issues. Collectively, they remind us of the importance of ministry rooted in gospel truths, and they give us the tools to contextualize our ministries while remaining anchored to God's Word. They help us respond biblically to the issues we face as we minister to women. Because real life ministry is challenging, we need biblical truth to focus us on the eternal. Topics addressed include:

How do we biblically encourage and minister to those who identify as transgender?

What are the implications of Imago Dei for women in ministry?

Can the church be a city of refuge in the #MeToo #ChurchToo age?

Embodied Hope, Kelly M Kapic.

Too often the Christian attitude towards suffering is characterized by a detached academic appeal to God's sovereignty, as if suffering were a game or a math problem. Or maybe we expect that since God is good, everything will just work out all right somehow. But where then is honest lament? Aren't we short-changing believers of the riches of the Christian teaching about suffering?

Transformed: Life-taker to Life-giver, Susan Hunt, Karen Hodge.

Deep in our hearts, we know our influence within each situation and relationship. Sometimes we are life-givers and sometimes life-takers. Key biblical passages, gospel-centered devotions, Scripture based prayers, and heart-penetrating questions celebrate the power of the gospel to transform God's daughters into women who give life to their relationships.

Life-giving Leadership, Susan Hunt, Karen Hodge.

Jesus modeled a different kind of leadership. His leadership brought life to His followers, and our leadership should too. But how can our leadership be life-giving when it can so easily be life-taking? Life-giving leadership is grounded in God's Word, filled with the purpose of glorifying God, relationally driven and decidedly different than anything the world teaches us about leadership.
